

Doctors Nova Scotia's Community Listening Tour

Physicians in Nova Scotia are under pressure. Faced with large patient rosters and limited resources, they are worried about their patients, their practices and their personal lives. That's why this spring, members of Doctors Nova Scotia's (DNS) senior leadership team embarked on a province-wide listening tour. They attended 29 meetings with a total of 235 physicians in 24 communities – learning about the challenges of practising medicine in Nova Scotia from people who are experiencing them first-hand.

Doctors Nova Scotia held seven meetings in your zone. This report summarizes the discussion DNS staff members had with physicians in Inverness, highlights key themes in your area and across the province, and outlines what DNS is doing to help.

TOTALS	7 meetings	61 physicians

Issues in Inverness

The physicians who participated in the Inverness community meeting expressed concerns about the following issues. Here's what we heard:

Alternative Payment Plan contracts

- Physicians believe that the government's refusal to allow APP physicians who are shadow-billing less than the 60 percent threshold to work outside the APP to help fill gaps in other areas is inappropriate, especially when physicians are responding to pleas for help in underserved areas around the province (such as the Springhill Collaborative Emergency Centre).
- Physicians are upset that the overall tone of correspondence from the Department of Health and Wellness (DHW) and MSI is full of accusation, judgment and lack of trust. For example, one physician received a letter six months ago stating the physicians' salary would be cut by 20 per cent if they did not change what they were doing. The tone and approach are combative, alienating, disheartening and completely disconnected from the reality of practice in Inverness.

Nova Scotia Health Authority

- Physicians do not know who they should speak to or what process they should follow about various issues that arise (for example, retirement and training).

Physician stress/burnout

- Physicians are experiencing much more stress today than just five years ago. It is reminiscent of the early 1990s when things were not going well at all for physicians. The poor treatment of physicians by the government and the NSHA are the main contributors to this stressful work environment.

Issue themes across the province

Many of the issues discussed in your community reflect concerns DNS has heard from physicians across the province. These concerns can be grouped into five themes:

Fragility of the physician workforce

- Including the shortage of physicians in Nova Scotia, persistent recruitment and retention concerns, lack of succession planning, lack of support for new physicians, and physician stress and burnout

Loss of professional autonomy and satisfaction

- Stemming from a loss of local authority and decision-making at the Nova Scotia Health Authority (NSHA), a lack of clarity about how, why and by whom decisions are made, a feeling of disconnection from the NSHA, and a loss of connection within the physician community itself

Demise of comprehensive family medicine

- Including excessive workloads, the fact that comprehensive family practice is increasingly an unsustainable business model, unintended incentives away from comprehensive family practice, and the absence of viable alternatives to the fee-for-service payment model

Unsustainability of rural specialty services

- Including unsustainable call schedules, recruitment and retention challenges, lack of succession planning and loss of local authority and decision-making

Lost opportunities to leverage technology

- Including the new non-face-to-face fee codes, which many physicians feel are cumbersome, and lack of compensation for physicians using MyHealthNS

Most of these themes reflect broad, systemic issues that are beyond the association's ability to resolve independently. However, even if DNS can't resolve the issue directly, the association can help members by ensuring that key health-system leaders understand the importance of resolving these issues in a timely manner.

Provincial next steps

- Provincial report and recommendations – Doctors Nova Scotia staff members are preparing recommendations on how best to address each of the themes identified above. In many cases, these recommendations will be based on solutions suggested by physicians. These recommendations will be outlined in more detail in the in-depth provincial community meeting report, which will be shared with physicians and key health-system leaders in September.
- Advocacy – Doctors Nova Scotia will continue its advocacy efforts on these priority issues that require collaboration with and leadership from other stakeholders, including the NSHA, the IWK, Dalhousie Medical School and the provincial government.
- Community-specific issues – Doctors Nova Scotia staff will continue to carry out any action items that are within the association's scope of work, and to advocate for resolutions to issues that are specific to individual communities.

Community support

These community meetings were a first step in the association's work to improve communication and connection with its members. Starting in September, each zone will have a dedicated DNS staff member. Their job will be to help DNS better understand your practice and community needs, and to help you solve problems and better navigate the system. This dedicated staff person will be your connection to DNS. If your concerns aren't reflected in this report, your dedicated DNS staff member will be available to listen, advise and help you resolve the issue.
